INTRODUCTION

Elena Waddell and I started working together in Longsight as trainee solicitors in 1981, some years later we were joined by Ben Taylor.

We are frequently asked to provide legal advice but not usually before clients have reached a real crisis. Over the past 30 years the number of specialist voluntary organisations in our community has grown in number catering for the diverse needs of individuals and families in our community. All of them working together either to prevent a crisis arising or to help those whose lives have in some way been shattered.

Prior to 1st April 2013, when LASPO came into effect, our team of lawyers assisted approximately 825 people each year at specialist legal help level as well as delivering a full range of legal aid services.

Legal aid cuts have meant that we can no longer assist clients in welfare benefits, debt and community care and the number of clients that we can assist in family law has been reduced from over 300 clients per year to 60.

Prior to April 2013 it was hard to address all of our clients needs; it is even more difficult now. Though the internet is a wonderful resource I have always found it helpful to have by my desk a list of those organisations active in our community and who are able to help individuals and families in ways that lawyers cannot.

We have worked hard to compile a comprehensive list, now proudly called a directory, of voluntary organisations working in our community. I very much hope you find it useful. I feel quite sure that we have omitted some but this was not intentional. If it is found to be useful we will edit it again and work towards making it as comprehensive as possible.

Best Wishes

Chris Bryan, Managing Partner,

WTB Solicitors LLP
